Budget Is Assailed In House

Committee Takes Another Whack At 'Monstrous', Budget Figures

WASHINGTON (UP) — The House Appropriations Committee today took a third whack at President Eisenhower's "monstrous" budget.

The Democratic-controlled committee, approving a spending bill for the White House and assorted minor agencies, chopped $4,805,500 out of the President's requests—a reduction of 23 per cent.

The economy-minded committee previously has recommended—and the House has approved—a 2 per cent cut in funds for the Treasury and Post Office Departments and a 12 per cent reduction in money to run the Interior Department. In dollars, these reductions totalled only about $141 million.

Warn President

Other developments in the budget cutting picture:

—Some congressmen warned President Eisenhower that unless he stops talking budget cuts some of his major legislation will be killed off in a snowballing congressional economy drive.

—House Democrats announced they will hold hearings on a resolution calling on the President to junk the record peacetime budget of $71.8 billion he has sent to Congress and submit a new one not exceeding $60 billion by April 15.

—A United Press spot survey of federal agencies turned up no evidence that they are considering any cuts in their budgets now before Congress. The check was made after Mr. Eisenhower told his news conference Thursday he had ordered a new review of federal spending plans to see if reductions can be made.

Approve Salary

The committee approved in full requests for $150,000 for the President's salary, which is fixed by law, $2,051,970 for expenses of the White House offices, $1.5 million for unspecified "special projects" of the President, and $400,400 for maintenance of the White House mansion and grounds.

It cut $320,000 out of requests for the President's Council of Economic Advisers, his National Security Council, the Office of Defense Mobilization, and his Advisory Committee on Government Organization.

The committee cut the President's national defense emergency fund from $5 million, as asked, to $1 million.

Janet Blair to Leave Caesar Show in May

NEW YORK (UP)—Janet Blair, Sid Caesar's third television "wife," will leave the comedian's show in May, because of dissatisfaction with her role.

The actress-dancer-singer, who followed Imogene Coca and Nannette Fabray, said Thursday she had requested and been granted a release from her three-year contract, now in its first year.

While emphasizing that the parting was amicable, Miss Blair said she felt that her role on the Saturday night NBC show did not allow her "the exposure I was led to believe I'd get."

When she first went on "Caesar's Hour", Miss Blair said, she thought it offered a "tremendous challenge and a marvelous opportunity." The strawberry-blonde actress added, however, that she was not given a chance to take advantage of either. Her personal relationship with Caesar, she said, had been "completely cordial."

Israeli Withdrawal Of Troops Completed

By UNITED PRESS

The last 150 Israeli combat troops sailed from Sharm El Sheikh at 6 p. m. (11 a. m. EST), today, completing the final military pullback from territory captured in the Sinai war.

Before departing, demolition squads dynamited the Egyptian pillboxes and gun emplacements the Israelis had occupied since last October. Then they handed over command of the area which controls the entrance to the Gulf of Aqaba to a 200-man Finnish infantry company of the United Nations Emergency Force.

The last Israeli military force pulled out aboard the Israeli frigate Iznak, which headed north just before sunset up the coast through the Gulf of Aqaba for Eliat, Israel's only port in the South.

About a dozen Israeli technicians remained behind to assist the UNEF establish control of the area.

But the military aftermath of the lightning Sinai war was over. Israel was back behind the 1949 armistice lines.

Maj. Gen. Moshe Dayan, Israeli chief of staff, flew to Sharm El Sheikh during the morning to supervise the final loading and demolitions. He left before the 4:30 p.m. (9:30 a.m. EST) formal handover ceremony to the Finnish UNEF unit.

Earlier, Maj. Gen. E. L. M. Burns, UNEF commander, had indicated in Cairo that a hitch had developed in Israel's withdrawal from Sharm El Sheikh, the tiny enclave which controls the entrance to the Gulf of Aqaba.

Burns said his forces were to take over the Aqaba Gulf shore area from Israeli forces this morning but there was a possibility the Israelies may have to remove their equipment Saturday.

Load Equipment

Israeli ships have been loading equipment for several days at a makeshift wharf, including captured Egyptian equipment. The evacuation by plane and ship was to be finished by sundown.

The withdrawal was so taken for granted in Cairo that Egypt announced opening of the Suez Canal to small ships of 500 tons or under and prepared to announce a speedup in clearance of the water-

Fayette County School Children To Get Vaccine

Dr. Fred L. Norton, president of the Fayette County Medical Society, said today the organization has adopted a program of free polio shots for school children up to the age of 20.

Dr. Norton stressed the fact that the program is strictly for school children. It does not include preschool or post-school children.

He also stated the program will not include free vaccine for adults who cannot pay. He said a state law prohibits furnishing free vaccine shots to persons other than school children and pregnant mothers unable to pay.

Informed that free vaccine was given to adults unable to pay the fee during the Westmoreland County Medical Society's "polio day" on Feb. 23, Dr. Norton stated:

"I don't know how they did it. There is a state law prohibiting such free distribution. All I know is our society has no such plan."

He said a meeting will be held soon to fix the dates and places for the school program.

The school children will receive their first and second inoculations at clinics. The third, or booster shot, will be administered by family physicians.

Minor Damage in Collision Here

Snow, Rain Sweeps Through the Valley

A dismal mixture of snow and rain covered the Monessen district today and made driving hazardous.

Although heavily traveled streets were somewhat clear, side roads had from one to four inches of snow.

State Police at Belle Vernon reported no accidents because of the snow but warned motorists to use caution on side roads. The main highways have been cleared of snow or cindered, police reported at noon today.

Reports said the Pennsylvania Turnpike was snow-covered from the western portal to Carlisle and a 35-mile speed limit had been placed in effect.

The Weather Bureau predicts a dreary rainy and snowy weekend with snow accumulation expected to reach up to five inches in the western and central portions of the state

Rain prevailed over most of the eastern half of the state today while mostly snow and sleet was present in sectors west of Harrisburg. A colder northerly flow of air now in the western half of the state will gradually move into the eastern portions later today.

The rain in the east will gradually change to snow late this afternoon or early today. Saturday will remain mostly cloudy and cold with snow flurries in the mountains and northeast portion. Snow or rain is forecast for Sunday in most sectors.

High temperatures today will remain in the 30's throughout most of the state except 40 near southeast portion. It will be colder tonight with lows in the middle or upper 20's. High temperatures on Saturday are again expected to be in the middle or upper 30's.

Portland Mayor Denies Taking Bribe; Offers to Take Lie Test

Ike Plans Trip to Florida

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower probably will go to Florida about the middle of next week for sun and exercise to combat a lingering head cold and cough, the White House said today.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said Mr. Eisenhower hopes and expects to get away to Florida five or six days before going to Bermuda March 20 for his scheduled conference with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

The conference with Macmillan opens March 21, and Hagerty said he expects the President to fly to Bermuda directly from Florida March 20.

Mr. Eisenhower is being treated with antibiotic drugs for his cold and a resultant slight inflammation of the eustachian tube of his left ear.

Hagerty said the President's cough seemed to be "a little better" this morning. But he still has a slight ear inflammation and head cold.

Arizona Trip Out

There had been reports, started by the President himself, that the Chief Executive might go to Arizona in an effort to lick his cough, but Hagerty flatly ruled out any such possibility today.

Both Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles are out of the country, and Mr. Eisenhower does not want to be as much as five to eight hours away from Washington by air.

Because of this, Hagerty said the President will not go to Arizona or any other western vacation site. Hagerty then said the President expects to go to Florida next week for sun and exercise.

Hagerty said he does not expect a decision on the precise departure time and destination in Florida before Monday. He said the White House is "looking at military installations or a private home" where the President could stay in Florida. Whatever spot Mr. Eisenhower picks, it will be near a good golf course.

Mr. Eisenhower will not be accompanied either to Florida or Bermuda by Mrs. Eisenhower.

Newell Plant Ups Production

A new nitric acid unit doubling the production capacity of Allied Chemical & Dye Corp.'s nearby Newell plant has been put into operation, it was announced today.

The Newell plant, a part of the corporation's General Chemical Division, has been built to serve consumers in the Pittsburgh, Cleveland and Delaware Valley areas. The plant incorporates the most advanced developments in nitric production techniques.

The plant's finished product storage facilities have also been increased as part of the expansion to help assure sufficient stocks to meet surges in demand, it was said.

H. Dean Menoher Named Director

A former American Window Glass Co. superintendent in Belle Veron, H. Dean Menoher, has been elected a director in the company, it was announced today.

Menoher managed the Belle Vernon plant for many years before being transferred to Jeannette. He has been with the company 45 years and is now manufacturing vice president.

The Belle Vernon plant was closed in 1949.

Little Stephen did survive as did his mother, who is gradually being nursed back to health in a London hospital.

Promises Full Public Report in Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Deputy Mayor Charles D. McCarthy promised today a full public disclosure of the results of an inquiry into an alleged police "cover up" of the wounding of a detective in an after-hours drinking club.

Safety Director Louis Rosenberg, who questioned 39 witnesses during a 5½-day investigation, said he hoped to make a full report to McCarthy by early next week.

The officer, Lt. Allen Carnahan, was wounded through the thighs with his own revolver in the Athletic Boosters Club early Sunday morning, Feb. 24. At first the detective, who headed the vice and narcotics squad, said he accidentally shot himself.

Later, Carnahan changed his story and said he was shot by Shirley Cavanaugh, 28, a divorcee with a record of prostitution arrests Still later, he told investigators that the woman had shot him but that it was accidental.

Probation Revoked

Miss Cavanaugh was charged with assault with intent to kill and released on bond, but Judge Harry Montgomery revoked a probation he had imposed three years ago when the woman pleaded guilty to a burglary charge and ordered her committed to jail.

Her lawyer, John V. Snee, petitioned for a writ of habeas corpus, contending Miss Cavanaugh was not properly represented by counsel when she pleaded guilty to taking several personal items from the home of the mother of her former husband.

Dist. Atty. Edward C. Boyle joined Thursday in asking that the guilty plea be withdrawn and Miss Cavanaugh be given a trial by jury. Judge Montgomery took the case under advisement.

The inquiry into the shooting of Carnahan was held behind closed doors. Councilman David Olbum and Asst. City Solicitor James Leonard joined with Rosenberg in hearing the witnesses, mostly officials and members of the police department.

It has been disclosed that the first officer to reach the scene after the shooting, Lt. Francis Walsh, called an ambulance and took Carnahan to a hospital without reporting a shooting. Homicide detectives made no investigation, it developed.

Liquor Board Investigation at Isabella Club

UNIONTOWN, Pa. (UP)— State Liquor Control Board agents joined with Fayette County officials today in an investigation into the Isabella Firemen's Club as the result of testimony of a former club official that the fire-fighters' ambulance was used to bring Maryland whisky into the state without payment of tax.

The charge was made by George Gehron, former club treasurer, during his trial for embezzlement of $3,000 of the department's funds. He was acquitted.

Gehron testified the money he was accused of taking actually was spent for liquor purchased at Frostburg, Md. His statements were supported by former Fire Chief James S. Duggan, who said he accompanied club officers on three of seven trips to Frostburg to pickup whisky.

Following the trial, P. E. Ryan, a PLCB enforcement agent, conferred with Fayette County Dist. Atty. Joseph E. Kovach on Gehron's charges.

The Isabella Firemen's Club is licensed to sell beer only.

Tells Racket Probe He Is not 'Stupid Enough' to Do That

WASHINGTON (UP) — Mayor Terry D. Shrunk of Portland, Ore., denied today that he took a $500 bribe from a gambler and offered to take a lie detector test to prove it.

The 43-year-old former sheriff of Multnomah County (where Portland is located) told the Senate Rackets Committee he was not "stupid enough" to accept a bribe in the presence of three witnesses.

Two policemen and a bartender have testified that they saw Schrunk pick up an envelope gambler Clifford O. (Jimmy) Bennett deposited behind a telephone pole outside a night club he threatened to close down.

Schrunk—sheriff at the time—said he had called city police to the scene to pick up a bicycle he had found.

"It's fantastic that I would have called city police officers to watch me take a bribe," Schrunk said. "I don't know how silly you can be."

Willing To Take Test

Schrunk said he is willing to take a lie detector test from the FBI or the U. S. Secret Service to back up his denial.

The Senate Rackets Committee also promised to disclose results of a lie-detector test given to Nate Zusman, natty night club operator who denied charges that he encouraged a "madam" to open a bawdy house in Portland and shared its profits.

The committee also planned to question two other key figures in an alleged plot by racketeers and officials of the AFL-CIO Teamsters Union to take over Portland's vice and gambling. They were Clyde C. Crosby, Teamster organizer for Oregon, and William M. Langley, Multnomah County district attorney elected in 1954 with Teamster backing. Langley has been accused in testimony before the committee of sharing graft from illegal activities in Portland.

Charge Labeled "Fantastic"

Schrunk, sheriff of Multnomah County (in which Portland is located) for more than six years before becoming Portland's Mayor Jan. 1, told the committee the charge that he took a bribe while sheriff was a "fantastic story" involving "perjury" by the witnesses against him.

During more than two hours of questioning Thursday, however, the committee failed to ask Schrunk directly to confirm or deny the payoff charge.

Schrunk told reporters after the hearing that he meant to deny the charge under oath and thought he had done so. He termed the accusation "strictly a frame."

Source Of The Charge

James B. Elkins, self-confessed Portland racketeer, gambler and bootlegger, testified earlier that Clifford O. (Jimmy) Bennett, his partner in the 8212 Club in Portland, told him he paid Sheriff Schrunk $500 on Sept. 11, 1955. Elkins said Bennett told him he handed over the money to ward off a raid and keep his customers from being arrested as they left his illegal after-hours drinking and gambling club.

Bennett refused to answer any questions about the incident. All he would tell the committee was that he now lives in Great Falls, Mont. The committee immediately moved to cite him for contempt of Congress.

The committee refused to let

Parents Accuse Teacher of Using Strap on Son

PITTSBURGH (UP)— Parents of a Collier Twp. school pupil have accused a teacher, who publicly defended discipline by spanking, of putting his theory into practice with a strap.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack S. Smith told members of the township school board that the teacher, Robert F. Koby, whipped their son so severely last Friday that the boy had to be taken to a doctor.

The school directors agreed to pay the physician's bill of $5 and turned the case over to Henry F. Roberts, superintendent of secondary schools in the joint district.

Last Wednesday, in a letter to the editor of a Pittsburgh newspaper, Koby replied to another writer who had opposed spanking.

"When a parent or teacher spanks a child, it is done as a last resort," Koby wrote. "One can love a child and still find it within himself to spank same."

An official of the school district, said Koby had been in trouble before because of his disciplinary methods. The official said the teacher was reprimanded last year for making girls stand in the cloakroom with waste baskets over their heads.

Sculco Formal Candidate for County Judge

L. Alexander Sculco, district attorney of Westmoreland County, today formally announced his candidacy for Common Court Pleas judge on both the Democratic and Republican tickets in the May 21 primary.

Sculco, a New Kensington Democrat, said he plans to stage an active campaign for one of the two judicial posts at stake in May's election.

He is completing his second four-year term as District Attorney. Previously he served as an assistant District Attorney under Judges Charles D. Copeland, Edward G. Bauer and John M. O'Connell.

Sculco said he is running on both tickets because he believes a judge "should be an individual of judicial temperament with fairness towards all, regardless of race, color or creed. I am confident I have those qualifications."

Sculco, who has been practicing law in the county since 1930, said as District Attorney it is his responsibility to personally present all indictments to the grand jury and, in conjunction with his staff, prepare and direct cases for disposal by the County Courts.

He is married and the father of two children.

He graduated from Parnassus High School in 1922, Penn State University in 1926 and George-

Charleroi Man Killed As Train Hits Truck

A 52 year-old Charleroi man, Harry Thomas, of 832 Shady avenue, was killed yesterday when a diesel locomotive struck his truck at the Nickel Plate Railroad's Richmond road crossing in suburban Oakland Village near Cleveland, O.

A companion, Henry Matras, 30, of Vanderbilt, Pa., leaped to safety an instant before the crash.

Thomas was pronounced dead at Bedford (O.) Hospital.

Matras told police Thomas had stopped at the crossing to "get his bearings," a matter of seconds before the crash.

Matras said he noticed the locomotive from his side of the truck cab just after the engine had rounded a curve.

He said he feared the truck's front bumper was jutting over the track and said he shouted a warning to Thomas before leaping. Matras said he did not know whether Thomas leaped or was thrown from the truck by the impact.

Oakwood Police said the tandem truck apparently was hit at its approximate center. They theorized that Thomas either had put the vehicle in motion in an attempt to cross the track or had allowed it to drift forward on a slight incline by taking his foot off the brake as he jumped.

The truck was carrying prefabricated home panels. Wreckage of the truck was strewn for 500 feet along the tracks.

He was the first to make the effort for the girls so they are planning to build an "Al Guzzi Memorial Cabin" with the fund contributions.

Guzzi for many years was head of the Juvenile Aid Division of the Muncie Police Department, which he founded, and since his death a number of civic organizations have been able to initiate "Guzzi Memorials".

The memorial cabin will be built this spring and should be ready for use in the summer. It will replace one that has been used for 30 years. Ike Plans to Make Quick Use of Mideast Doctrine

Special Mission Is Preparing to Explain Program

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower today prepared to sign his Middle East doctrine and immediately dispatch a special mission to the Middle East to explain it.

Special Ambassador James P. Richards, head of the presidential mission, said he expected to leave Tuesday to visit possibly as many as 18 nations.

At the same time, U.S. officials prepared plans for issuing a declaration that the United States regards the Gulf of Aqaba and the Strait of Tirap as an international waterway open to all nations including Israel.

U.S. Lead Promised

The United States told Israel during talks to get Israeli troops withdrawn from Egypt that the United States would take the lead in declaring the Gulf of Aqaba leading to the Israeli port of Elath an open waterway.

The President was expected to sign the Congress-approved doctrine resolution as soon as possible after it reaches the White House from Capitol Hill.

The House gave overwhelming final congressional approval to the doctrine Thursday in a smashing 350-60 roll call vote.

Richards, Ike To Confer

Richards, former Democratic chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, said he expected to meet with the President before leaving for the Middle East.

His job will be to explain the purposes of the doctrine to Middle East leaders and sound them out on their need of possible economic and military aid under the doctrine's aid provisions.

Richards will explain to Middle East leaders that the fight-if-we-must doctrine aimed at possible Communist aggression would be applied only if a nation attacked asked for U.S. troops.

He faced a tough job in some countries.

Only Thursday night in Jordan Premier Suleiman Nabulsi was reported to have told his associates that he would not receive the Richards mission But earlier, Jordan King Hussein said he welcomed the pending visit.

Egypt remained officially silent but cool regarding the doctrine Syria was openly opposed.

HARRISBURG (UP)—A York County man who does business with the state plans to quit his $10,000 a year post as consultant to the Bureau of Corrections in the state Justice Department.

The dual role of Maurice B. Harris, York, a business associate of Supreme Court Justice Herbert B. Cohen, came under fire from Republican legislators this week.

Refugees Killed

The Israeli withdrawal from the Gaza Strip was completed almost without incident Thursday.

The takeover of Gaza was not without tragedy, however. Arab refugees who had fled into the Sinai desert ahead of the Israeli army swarmed back into the strip across unmarked minefields and many were reported killed or injured.

U.N. surgeons attached to the UNEF worked through the night amputating mangled limbs of the victims. "Many" Arabs were reported killed, but there was no immediate count of the casualties.

To Announce Compliance

Israeli evacuation of Sharm El Sheikh also was taken for granted in the United Nations, and Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold prepared to go before the General Assembly (3 p.m.) today to announce Israel's compliance with the withdrawal resolutions.

Later he may fly to Egypt to consult with President Gamal Abdel Nasser on details of the Suez Canal operation. Egypt, in opening the waterway today to tiny coastal vessels and harbor craft, permitted British and French vessels to use it but denied passage to the Israelis.

Israel was still bitter over giving up so easily the areas it had won in the Sinai campaign, and the opposition parties called major demonstrations again today to protest Premier David Ben-Gurion's withdrawal policies.

Medical Society for Mandatory Polio Shots

HARRISBURG (UP)—The Pennsylvania Medical Society today endorsed the "principle" of mandatory anti-polio vaccinations for school children as proposed in the General Assembly.

Dr. Elmer G. Shelley, North East, society president, said "the medical profession has always preferred voluntary measures to compulsion in matters of public health but in the absence of any practicable plans for achieving complete immunization on a voluntary basis, we are obligated to support the legislation in the interest of public welfare."

The society also said it would favor enlarging the scope of the legislation to include compulsory shots against diphtheria and tetanus, as suggested by Dr. Berwyn F. Mattison, state health secretary. Shelley, however, emphasized the society, like Mattison, supported mandatory vaccination with some reservations.

"The society feels the children should have suitable immunization during the first year of life," Shelley said. "While school attendance in the state may require certain immunizations, this should not mean that parents wait until children are of school age."

Two measures requiring compulsory Salk vaccine are under study by the House Education Committee. One would amend the school code to bar children at all private, parochial or public schools after Sept. 1 if they had not received the injections. The cost would be borne by the Commonwealth.

The second bill is similar except it would push the effective date back to Sept. 1, 1959 and does not specify how the program would be financed.

At present only small pox immunization is mandatory in the school system.

The Health Deparment said up to February 35 per cent of the state's school-age children had not received anti-polio shots.

No Union for Mesta Plant

HOMESTEAD, Pa (UP) — A group of employes of the Mesta Machine Company plant at West Homestead have again voted against union representation.

An attempt by the International Moulders & Foundry Workers, AFL-CIO, to organize some 900 of the plant's 4,000 employes ended in failure Thursday.

The employes voted, 489-450 against the union. It was the fourth unsuccessful organizing attempt at the plant in recent years.

The plant, which manufactures heavy machinery for the steel industry, is one of the largest unorganied operations in Western Pennsylvania.

Special Taxes On Refuse Dumps Subject of Suit

GREENSBURG, Pa. (UP)— A Penn Twp. man today filed a suit seeking to prevent collection of special taxes from owners of garbage dumps.

William C. Bolen said in his complaint that an ordinance passed by Penn Twp. commissioners last Jan. 26 imposing a tax and an additional fee was contrary to the state constitution which requires uniform taxes.

Bolen owns a 125-acre tract of land used by Irwin, North Huntingdon, North Irwin, Manor and Wilkinsburg as a garbage dump.

The ordinance regulates hauling and dumping within the township and imposes an annual license fee of $250 upon owners of garbage dumps. In addition owners must pay 50 cents for each load of garbage dumped on their properties.

Westmoreland County court will set a hearing date later.

Schrunk put in the record an affidavit from Bennett because the latter refused to be cross-examined. The mayor later showed the affidavit to newsmen. In it, Bennett declared he would testify that Schrunk "has never asked for money or anything else and at no time ever made any promises that I could have protection to do anything illegally. . ."

Rare Snow Storm Hits The South

By UNITED PRESS

A late winter storm whistled into Dixie today and unloaded a rare snowfall in Mississippi and Alabama.

The wintry blast also pounded points north, and weathermen issued warnings of heavy snow accumulations today in West Virginia, west and central Pennsylvania and western sections of Virginia.

The storm's low blow in the South was blamed on a cold front that drove out of the Great Plains Thursday, swept across the Mississippi Valley and into the East.

It hit the South with all of winter's elements—freezing temperatures, ice and snow.

The storm started with rain, but turned to ice and snow as readings plunged into the 30s during the night in portions of the Gulf Coast states.

The widespread snow band powdered the northern half of Mississippi and Alabama and dumped heavier amounts northward through Tennessee, Kentucky, West Virginia, Ohio and Western Pennsylvania.

About two to three inches of snow were reported from northern Tennessee through Kentucky and West Virginia this morning. Dangerous during conditions were reported throughout the area.

Rain continued to fall ahead of the snow to the Atlantic Coast, but weathermen said it will change to snow as the storm pushes east.

Forecasters said the snow belt today will stretch from New England through the Atlantic states and into northern Georgia. However, they said the snow probably will be mixed with rain along the coast.

Relatively mild weather replaced the cold air in the northern and central plains, which usually bear the brunt of wintry storms. The warming averaged about 25 degrees in the northern plains and 20 degrees in the Central Plains.

Heavy rains continued to pound the northwest coastal section, with Newport, Ore., reporting a 2.82-inch deluge in 24 hours. Other 24-hour amounts in Oregon included Astoria, 1.22 inches and Salem 1.43.

PUC Orders Everson Grade Crossing Inquiry

HARRISBURG (UP)—The Public Utility Commission has ordered an investigation of two grade crossings in Everson, Fayette County, to determine if additional protection is needed

The crossings, with fixed signs, are a block apart where Pennsylvania Railroad and Baltimore and Ohio Railroad tracks intersect Jones St, and are used as a detour for U.S. Route 119 traffic during construction of a bridge in the borough

A truck driver was killed and a woman injured seriously in a collision with a freight train on the PRR crossing Jan 10 The B. & O. crossing, a block west, carries more trains and at higher speeds.

The PUC said traffic on Jones St. was normally light, but conditions apparently have become dangerous since the detour was established.

The state Highways Department and the two railroads have been asked to reply to the investigation order A public hearing will be held later.

Allegheny Quits Food Program

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Allegheny County, which never wanted the job, is stepping out of the free food program June 1.

The county commissioners said they finally decided to withdraw from the three-year program after adopting an "austerity" budget for 1957.

They said turning the program over to the Commonwealth would save the county $100,000 in the latter half of 1957. That amount is half the annual cost of administering the program

Nearly 213,000 persons, one out of every seven county residents, will be affected by the move.

Florida not Ready for Integration—Court

By UNITED PRESS

The Florida Supreme Court ruled in a split decision today that admission of a Negro student to the all-white University of Florida at this time would bring violence and a "critical disruption" of the university system.

In a 5-2 decision, the high court voted to postpone the admission of Negro Virgil Hawkins Earlier the court had ruled Hawkins could not be barred because of his race but it held then, as today, that the highest court of "a sovereign independent state" has the right to "exercise a sound judicial discretion" as to when integration can be put into actual practice.

In another higher education development on the segregation front today, the entire student body of the all-Negro Alcorn A&M State College in southwestern Mississippi quit in protest against a so-called "Uncle Tom" professor to defend racial segregation.

Student President Ernest McEwin announced the 570 students will leave at once, forcing the 86-year-old land-grant institution to close

McEwin said the students did the "only honorable thing" in view of an ultimatum by the state college board that they end a half-week classroom boycott or face disciplinary action.

The object of the student protest was history professor Clennon King, 36-year-old Georgia born native who criticized organized integration drives by members of his own race

King blamed the National Assn for the Advancement of Colored People for much of the South's racial unrest The students accused their professor of adopting the "line" of the white citizens councils.

Air Force Is 'Satisfied' with Training Flight

TRAVIS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (UP)— Air Force officers indicated today they were "very satisfied" with the results of a transocean training flight by some 30 long-range B36 bombers.

The B36's were from the Fifth Bombardment Wing stationed at Travis AFB near San Francisco, Kirtland AFB at Roswell, N M., and Biggs AFB at El Paso, Tex

Also taking part in the mission were B47 jet bombers and a number of C124 and C97 transport support planes

The B36's left last Friday—some going to Okinawa, others to Alaska and some to Japan. They returned Thursday

Col. Royce Olson, Fifth Wing director of operations, said the planes took part in a simulated bombing run directed by radar "at the other end"

Lions Members In Zone Meeting At Slovak Home

The first inter-zone meeting for members of area Lions clubs was held last night at the Slovak Home with 165 Lions from Scottdale, Belle Vernon, Washington Township, Rostraver, Smithton and Mt. Pleasant present.

President William Essey of the host club and Mayor Hugo Parente, a club member, extended the official welcome. David Victoria asked the invocation and Walter Labeka led in the group singing

Joseph Venneri of the local club presented a plaque to Maynard Jesick, president of the Belle Vernons Lions, which had the largest percentage representation present.

Introduced were Ross Aiello, zone chairman; John Canfield, of Hermanie, district deputy governor; Dom DeMari, of New Kensington, international counselor and Sam Ratner, of Greensburg.

The guest speaker was Dr. N A Brose, a Pittsburgh doctor and member of the faculty at the University of Pittsburgh. He discussed "Peptic Ulcers" and showed a moving picture of an ulcer operation. A question and answer period concluded the session.

Leader Budget Target

HARRISBURG (UP)—Republican State Chairman George I. Bloom charged today that "tremendous increases" in proposed operating expenses would boost the cost of state government by $100,000,000 under Gov. George M. Leader.

Bloom called upon "Pennsylvanians who want to keep their taxes down" to support those state lawmakers who "are trying to cut spiraling governmental costs."

"What the general public needs," Bloom said, "is a vigilant and aggressive lobby that watches expenditures and supports the legislators who are trying to eliminate waste and extravagance."

In an outline of the budget proposals presented by Leader last month, Bloom said that most of the higher costs are in government operations.

"Gov. Leader, in his budget message, called attention to the fact that of the more than $17,000,000 increase that he proposed for the next biennium, over $103,000,000 is for subsidies," he said. "What he failed to mention was that he wants an increase of about $53,750,000 for governmental operations.

"Instead of proposing the $100,000,000 in savings from what Republicans were spending to run the state government, the governor has come up with just the opposite proposal to increase the cost of government by more than $100,000,000 in the short span of four years."

NEW YORK (UP)—It was 93 at Yuma, Ariz., Thursday, the highest temperature in the nation, the U.S. Weather Bureau reported. Coldest reading logged today was 15 degrees below zero at Grand Marais, Mich.

GUEST SPEAKER — The Very Rev. Vernon F. Gallagher, president of Duquesne University, will be guest speaker at the third annual Charter Night of the Monongahela Valley Serra Club Tuesday at the Charleroi Elks club. Victor A. Rehula, Jr., of Charleroi, announces that Serra Clubs from Pittsburgh, Greensburg, Uniontown, New Kensington, Butler and Beaver Falls will be represented.

Newlyweds Are Killed in Crash Of Small Plane

CLAY, W. Va. (UP)—A couple, said to be newlyweds, were killed Thursday when their small private plane, apparently lost in a heavy fog, smashed into a mountain-side near here.

The pilot was identified as John Elmer Matthews, 29, of San Diego, Calif. The body of Matthews' woman companion was later identified as his wife, the former Patricia Adams of Encinitas, Calif.

State Police trooper S P Vandevender said investigators learned from Matthews' stepfather, W. E Patterson, New Castle, Pa, that although Matthews resided in San Diego, he had been working recently at Port Canaveral, Fla Investigators learned from Matthews' brother-in-law, Allen Chambers of Cleveland, Ohio, that Matthews had been married only recently.

Vandevender said the destination of the plane was not determined but that fuel receipts found among Matthews' effects showed the pilot had landed for gas at St. Simons Island, Ga., and Hickory, N.C.

The plane caught fire after it struck the ground, Vandevender said ,but only part of it burned Matthews' body was thrown clear of the wreckage but the woman was burned beyond recognition.

Bosses Make Oxygen

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — About 20 supervisory employes of the Linde Air Products Co. operated the strikebound plant at suburban Essington today to supply vital liquid oxygen to hospitals and the steel industry.

The company said Thursday it intends to maintain two thirds normal production at the plant, working on a 24-hour basis, until the 135 striking employes return.

The plant is one of four Linde facilities closed by the strike of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union since Jan. 24 and 25. A company spokesman said there were no attempts to reopen the other three plants, at Tonawanda, N. Y., Kittanning, Pa., and Youngstown, O.

A picket line of six to 12 men has been maintained at the single plant gate. A company spokesman said about 50 pickets showed up after the union was informed the plant was being reopened with supervisory workers Thursday. They made no attempt, however, to halt supervisory workers from entering.

The spokesman said the strike at the Essington plant has caused a critical shortage of oxygen in the steel industries and hospitals.

The company said in announcing plans to reopen they had urged the union to return to work with a 12-cent hour wage increase and other contract improvements. The union, however, is demanding a single contract for all four of the company plants.

Just Can't Stand Crying Children

ELIZABETH, N.J. (UP)—Paul S. Zegreckis can't stand the sight of children crying.

Police took Zegreckis to a home to identify his stolen television set. The alleged thief's eight children burst into tears when Zegreckis identified his set.

"Give it to them," he told the authorities.

Economists Looking to Steel for Any Changes

NEW YORK (UP)—The economists are keeping an eye on steel for a clue to the nation's economic health.

Changes in economic trends are quickly mirrored in steel activity, the experts point out

Right now, the nation's health looks good. Steel activity has slackened in recent weeks but still is running at a 120 million-ton annual rate.

The general belief is that the year 1957 will be one of rolling adjustment — declines in some lines, gains in others. This should spell a good steel year.

Sluggishness Eases

Earlier this year some sluggishness in steel buying by auto and appliance companies touched off fears that an economic adjustment might be in the cards.

However, sustained demand from construction firms, railroad car builders, oil companies and shipbuilders have helped to take up the slack.

Leading steel executives in recent weeks have told their shareholders that the outlook for 1957 is good. Many have said there is a good chance output this year may even top the record 117 millions produced in 1955.

Leaders Confident

Tom C. Campbell, editor-in-chief of the Iron Age, told the United Press production this year will run between 115 million and 120 million tons.

He explained that many industry leaders have scaled down their earlier estimates, but that most are confident production will at least match last year's 115 million-ton figure. That was the second best production total in history.

Joel Hunter, president of Crucible Steel Co., said the outlook for special purpose steels was never brighter. He said demand was below the "extreme highs" of the previous quarter but strong enough for satisfactory operations.

THE MUNICIPAL AUTHORITY OF THE BOROUGH OF BELLE VERNON

Belle Vernon, Pennsylvania

DECEMBER 31, 1956

ACCOUNTANTS' CERTIFICATE

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE BOARD OF THE MUNICIPAL AUTHORITY OF THE BOROUGH OF BELLE VERNON, PENNSYLVANIA.

We have examined the balance-sheet of the MUNICIPAL AUTHORITY OF THE BOROUGH OF BELLE VERNON, PENNSYLVANIA, as of December 31, 1956 and the related statement of income for the year then ended. Our examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards, and accordingly included such tests of the accounting records and such other auditing procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances. We reviewed the provisions of the Trust Indenture relating to the disposition of revenues and ascertained that all covenants and obligations of the Authority provided therein were fully complied with, and we ascertained that all funds on deposit were secured by depositories' collateral of United States Government Securities.

In our opinion, the accompanying balance-sheet and related statement of income present fairly the financial position of the Authority at December 31, 1956 and the results of its operations for the year then ended, in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles applied on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year.

New Resin Lenses Practical in Specs

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

When your eye doctor recommends glasses for your youngster you may want to ask him about the advisability of using plastic lenses.

Plastic lenses were introduced in the United States back in 1937, but because of their poor wearing qualities their production was halted two years later.

By 1948, however, scientists had worked out a method of making lenses from the hardest optical resin ever developed. These now can be fitted to almost any present-day type of frame

They have been found to be especially desirable for active youngsters who are apt to break ordinary glasses during their over-zealous play.

The new resin lenses have 30 times as much scratch-resistance as the best ordinary plastic lenses. They are four times as resistant to high-speed impacts as the best safety glasses, according to the Better Vision Institute.

When they do give way they don't break into dangerous sharp pieces. They merely crack.

The lenses are immune to softening by heat and weigh only half as much as glass lenses.

They have another advantage, too, they have great moisture-resistance. In fact, ordinary glass lenses are 75 per cent more subject to misting. This makes the plastic ones valuable to butchers and others who are constantly going in and out of refrigerated or steamy places.

Industrial workers on such jobs as sandblasting, grinding or welding might find them a great safety aid. The hard resin lenses are ten times more resistant to welding spatter than ordinary glass.

The advantages are not all on one side, however. The hard resin lenses cost more than glass lenses And they are more easily marred.

You've got to be especially careful not to put them face down on a rough surface. Use only soap and water to clean them, then wipe them with a soft cloth or tissue.

Barring any careless handling or serious accident, they will last until there is need for a prescription change.

Question and Answer

W P: I have been gaining weight steadily, although I eat no more than before: I seem very tired, usually in the afternoons and my hair is thinning. Can you help me?

Answer: From the symptons you describe you are probably suffering from a lack of thyroid secretion.

Laborites Claim Election Victory

LONDON (UP)—The Conservative Party won two by-elections in "safe" districts Thursday but its margin dropped so sharply the Laborites hailed the results today as a victory.

The biggest Labor victory came in the Tory stronghold of Warwick-Leamington where voters named a successor to the House of Commons to succeed former Prime Minister Anthony Eden.

There the Conservative margin was a bare two per cent Laborites said the results proved current predictions that they would sweep to power if a general election were held today.

But even if the face of decreased popularity, Prime Minister Harold Macmillan said Thursday night he would not call a general election before the government's term expires in 1959

The Opposition

THE VOTE of 72 to 19 by which the Senate finally approved the Eisenhower Middle East resolution — in slightly amended form — will make many people wonder what the long and exhausting debate was all about.

The answer to this can be found in the line-up of the opposition.

In this group undoubtedly were some senators who had honest doubts about the wisdom of the resolution — or at least the need for it. Their votes represent convictions which we must respect however wrong we consider them.

But the heart of the opposition was of quite a different character. The longest and loudest objections came from the ever-talking Senator Morse, a man whose distinguishing characteristic long has been his infatuation with the sound of his own voice.

Senator Morse found some odd allies — Senators McCarthy and Jenner, among the Republicans, and those champions of white supremacy, Senators Eastland and Talmadge.

This motley crew had just one objective throughout the Middle East debate, which finally amounted to a filibuster in a very thin disguise. The objective was to embarrass President Eisenhower and to "get" Secretary Dulles.

To accomplish this they used every weapon in sight, especially the Constitution, which, like the Scripture, can usually be quoted to serve the devil's uses.

But the longer they droned, the more clear the purpose became, to the Senate as well as to the country as a whole. It was a truly shameful exhibition.

The President and Mr. Dulles, however, can be proud of their enemies. They can know, too, by the Senate's vote how little substance there was to the opposition.

Overstating the Case

WE ARE inclined to agree with State Sen. John H. Dent, of Westmoreland County, who says some Pennsylvania manufacturers are overdoing it somewhat in their efforts to get more favorable tax treatment.

Senator Dent's rather heated remarks were inspired by a speech of Willard F. Rockwell, whose firm a few years ago operated a foundry in Monessen. Addressing the Pennsylvania Manufacturers Association recently, Mr. Rockwell said Pennsylvania is in some danger of becoming a "ghost state" if it does not get its tax structure more in line with other states.

Mr. Rockwell's son, Willard, Jr., who is president of the State Chamber of Commerce, also has been hammering away at this theme.

Senator Dent feels that the Rockwells and others have been going too far and are nullifying the efforts which are being made, at considerable cost to the taxpayers, to attract new industry to Pennsylvania. And he cites statistics of the State Department of Commerce to show that Pennsylvania is not becoming a "ghost state", and that, on the contrary, industrial development is proceeding at a rather encouraging pace.

While it is no doubt true that Pennsylvania's taxes on corporations are higher than those in other states and that a careful check must be kept on this situation, it is also true that industry has been doing quite well in Pennsylvania. And we wonder if a trifle more emphasis by some of our speech-making industrial leaders about the many, many advantages which Pennsylvania offers and which they themselves have experienced would not be more helpful.

We need some tax reform at Harrisburg, and we need it badly. But let's not burn the barn to get rid of the rats.

Safety Lever

LONG observation has about convinced us that the average automobile driver thinks more of his license than he does of his life.

Safety slogans like, "The Life You Save May Be Your Own", have been widely used for years with little noticeable effect. But a rigidly enforced policy of jerking away the driver's license for serious infractions — and then making the license hard to recover — has dramatic effect on the accident rate.

Along this line, some readers may have wondered why The Daily Independent has made it a practice for several years to publish the names of those drivers in this area whose licenses are suspended or revoked and the reasons therefore. Not all newspapers do this although the lists are readily available from the Bureau of Highway Safety.

We do not enjoy bringing peoples' difficulties to public attention, and we have been subjected to pressure in individual cases to withhold certain names. But the publicity, as well as the actual loss of the driving privilege, is a powerful help in making motorists think twice before doing things they should not do on the highway.

Our highways take a terrible toll of life — most of it unnecessarily. And in our opinion any measures which can help reduce that toll, no matter how unpleasant they may be, are not only warranted but urgently called for.

Warns Democrats—

Sen. Kennedy Discusses Party Future

NEW YORK — One of the Democratic party's fastest-rising and most articulate leaders has called for a "penetrating reappraisal" of the party and its course. Writing in Life Magazine, Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts called for "new ideas, new policies and new faces", if the Democratic party is to escape the fate of the Federalist and Whig parties in the 19th century and if it is to stage a comeback in the presidential campaign of 1960.

In 1960, Kennedy says, the Democrats will be matched against "a tough, skillful, shrewd opponent" in Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

"Far from being the push-over some Democrats expect, Mr. Nixon has four well-publicized years ahead in which to increase his public stature, four years of basking in the Eisenhower charm in which to campaign for the favor of previously hostile voters, four years in the spotlight without being required, as his competitors in both parties will be, to go on record (except in rare cases) on controversial issues. It will take more than abusive statements to beat Mr. Nixon — those he can read riding in the 1961 inaugural parade."

Any analysis of the Democratic party's current status and future prospects, Kennedy says, must begin with the inescapable fact that the party suffered a "disastrous defeat" in the last election. Speaking of election results in 1956, he said:

"To be sure, for a 'minority' party, Democrats occupied an extraordinary number of governors' mansions. And true, Democratic majorities were retained in each house of Congress, largely as the result of the party's substantial record of legislative achievement in the 84th Congress. But these majorities do not obscure the party's resounding defeat on the national level, and cannot conceal the awesome problems that face us during the next four years."

'Horns of a Dilemma'

Looking ahead to the 1960 campaign, Kennedy says that if prosperity holds, domestic issues are not likely to be useful to the Democrats. At the same time the administration's "whole-hearted endorsement of internationalism leaves at issue largely day-to-day techniques, judgments and administerial competence rather than broad foreign policy questions." He says that although a great role for intelligent opposition remains, "the political benefit to be reaped must always take second place to responsibility for the national security. Also, faced with an administration obviously to the left of the traditional Republican position, the Democrats are caught on the horns of a dilemma."

"We cannot move either left or right merely to be distinctive, without considering the national interest or the public's feeling. And if we simply stay in the middle with a policy of moderation, we will not — assuming continued good times and Republican moderation — distinguish our position sufficiently to arouse the much-needed enthusiasm of our more progressive supporters, particularly in the West, and the presidential race will be reduced to largely a personality contest."

"The only course for the Democratic party, if it is not to join the Whigs and Federalists in political limbo, is to move ahead responsibly, courageously, harmoniously. Under Jefferson, Jackson, Wilson, Roosevelt and Truman, our chief claim to the confidence of the nation, North and South, has been leadership."

Offers 'Principles'

The Massachusetts Senator is optimistic as to 1960. "Personally I am confident of our party's future. We have an impressive array of able leaders and a host of potential issues." He suggests several "guiding principles" for the party to follow if it is to win in 1960. Among them:

It must be willing to embrace new ideas, new policies and new faces, "unafraid of controversial issues or candid criticism."

Democratic leaders must be increasingly willing to put the party's future ahead of sectional, factional and personal disputes and ambitions. They must also begin their work immediately.

Congressional leadership has the primary job of shaping a responsible, progressive record with deeds that match its words. Kennedy says that while it is important that Democratic governors, elder statesmen, and national committee express their views through the new national advisory council, more frequent regional and national conferences, the responsibility for the party's actual record on national issue falls primarily upon the Democrats in Congress, under the leadership of Speaker Sam Rayburn and Senate majority Leader Johnson, "who represent the most effective consensus on most issues of our multi-interest, multi-sectional party today."

Merry-Go-Round—

Small Business Gets Brush-off

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — The Democrats made a big hurrah about helping small business during the recent election campaign. Now however, they are coming up with a nice fat zero.

The Republicans, it's true, also made a lot of noise about helping small business, and Sherman Adams told the Smaller Business Association of New England that tax relief definitely would be forthcoming if Ike were re-elected. Now the administration is vigorously opposing this and all tax cuts.

Mr. Pearson

However, let's see what the Democrats, who yelled the loudest, did about small business.

Very quietly, and in one single morning, the Democratic leadership rushed the existing tax bill on corporation profits through the House Ways and Means Committee, which handles taxes.

No effort was made by either party to reduce the tax on small business. No small-business witnesses were heard. The speed was such as to arouse suspicion. Afterward, the tax bill was given a gag rule by the Rules Committee, which means that it cannot be amended on the floor of the House. No congressman can propose a lower tax for small business and get it voted on.

Why the Rush?

Officially, the rush was justified by the fact that the tax bill expires March 31. It contains excise taxes as well as corporate taxes, and there cannot be even one day's lapse in the machinery of collecting excise taxes.

However, here is the very significant development regarding the tax bill after it was rammed through the Ways and Means Committee. At first it was sent to the full House for action during the week of Feb. 18. Then suddenly it was withdrawn. It is now being held in abeyance until a few days before the taxes are due to expire on March 31. The reason is complicated but important. In brief, it smacks of oil.

In Capitol cloakrooms it's admitted the House Democratic leadership is fearful that the Senate will pass a reduction of the 27-½ oil depletion allowance. This is the big tax bonanza which permits oil men to have the most favored tax position in the USA; and, incidentally, also permits them to throw all kinds of money into election campaigns.

Seldom has public opinion been so irate against the oil companies as right now. So Democratic leaders, one of them coming from oil-rich Texas, another from oil-rich Oklahoma, have held up the tax bill. They know the Senate is always slow.

Therefore, House leaders intend to pass the tax bill at the last minute, then sent it to the Senate. In the few hours or days before March 31 they know the Senate won't have time to add any amendments hurting oil.

NOTE — Speaker Sam Rayburn has pushed more legislation through the House favoring humanitarian causes than any single living American. So he can be forgiven for bowing three times in the direction of oil when oil legislation peeks even remotely over the edge of the capitol dome. After all, he's from Texas. Rep. Carl Albert of Oklahoma is a Democratic whip.

Fulbright Struggles

Meanwhile, Sen. Bill Fulbright, Democrat of Arkansas, is carrying out the Democratic platform by offering an amendment reducing taxes on small corporations and increasing them slightly on giant firms, such as General Motors, which dominate the American economy. This, he contends, would get around the White House argument that the Treasury can't afford loss of tax revenue.

Thirty-two Senators are supporting Fulbright's amendment. But he can't get Sen. Harry Byrd, of Virginia, biggest apple grower in the world and no friend of small business, even to hold hearings. Byrd is chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, and he has ignored all of Fulbright's requests for hearings.

In the House, Rep. Wright Patman of Texarkana, Texas, stanch friend of little business, has proposed a similar tax reduction for small business, but he has already been thwarted by the Ways and Means Committee's ramrod action.

So even if the 32 senators supporting Fulbright should get a small business tax relief amendment through the Senate, they will come up against astute Democratic leaders in the House determined to permit no change in the tax bill.

Backstage with Diplomats

The expansive bosom of Nicaraguan Ambassador Bill Sacasa is going to swell a bit more shortly. With the exit of much-loved Norwegian Ambassador Morgenstierne, the envoy of the turbulent, tiny Central American dictatorship becomes dean of the Washington diplomatic corps. The genial Sacasa is one envoy who got his job via the bloody hands of a bloody father-in-law — President Somoza, now assassinated. Somoza was a sergeant whom the U. S. Marines trained so well that he took over the presidency of Nicaragua for years. . . . When Brazilian envoy to the Pan American Union Fernando Lobo went to Nashville to pay tribute to Cordell Hull for the good neighbor policy, he knew better. Lobo knew the real founder of the good neighbor policy was Sumner Welles, who sold it to FDR in 1932, inserted it in the Democratic platform at the Chicago 1932 convention, and later carried it out as Undersecretary of State . . . One of the reasons Cordell Hull has got credit for the good neighbor policy is that he was smart enough to hire an expert newsman, able Andrew Berding, to write his memoirs. Jim Hagerty has now been smart enough to transfer Berding over to the State Department to improve John Foster Dulles's press relations. Berding will become Assistant Secretary of State.

GOP Congressmen Showing Discontent

By RAYMOND LAHR

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower's second term honeymoon may last no longer than President Roosevelt's.

While no real revolt is in sight, a rebellious spirit is developing among members of his own party in Congress.

Mr. Lahr

Some are complaining about what they consider major irritations like the still sizeable foreign aid program and the record peacetime budget of $71.8 billion for the coming fiscal year.

Others are grousing about minor annoyances. They do not want to learn first from their newspapers about government action affecting their constituencies or their committee chores in Congress. They want to be consulted.

Trouble For Administration

All this can spell trouble for Mr. Eisenhower's legislative program. How serious it may be will be more apparent by next summer.

Republicans and Democrats have a healthy respect for the vote polled by Mr. Eisenhower last November. But some veteran Republicans in Congress believe there will be a growing tendency for each man "to go his own way" in voting on the administration's legislative program.

One reason for added sensitivity to the home front is that the House's entire 435 seats and one-third of the Senate's 96 are at stake in the mid-term elections of 1958.

Some Eisenhower partisans in Congress want the President to give them more concrete help to get his legislation passed.

On the other hand, some conservative Republicans think he has embraced the New Deal and submitted legislation that would better be forgotten.

Some Republicans want Mr. Eisenhower to visit more with members of Congress. Others feel he's too deeply tied up with foreign affairs to do that, but want his White House, cabinet and subcabinet officials to give more attention to Congress.

Don't Relish Treatment

A veteran Republican senator said he got more sympathetic treatment from the executive departments when the Democrats were in control. And here a Republican House member is talking:

"The President ought to take just one month and see the members of Congress. The main trouble is that the guys around the President don't care about Congress. He's involved in foreign affairs. The members of the House are interested in what's happening at home. But Ike's men are big shots. They don't have time for our problems.

"They don't hesitate to call up when they want something. But when we want something—maybe just a little thing like an autographed picture of the President to send back to a country chairman — they say he's too busy.

"Also the President ought to be seeing some local political leaders. I had a fellow in from home recently who could do the party a lot of good. He wanted to see the President. I told him it wasn't even worth trying."

First Night Away From Home Big Deal

By MARGARET LATROBE

It all looked so strange to the small girl. Same familiar rooms, same friends — yet at seven in the evening the people and the place seemed quite unfamiliar. She had visited here many times before. There were crackers and milk set on the kitchen table after school. If rain turned the light down outside, then she and her adored Annie played inside. But rain or sunshine, the yard and the house looked a certain way.

Mrs. Latrobe

At five o'clock, this place existed no more — for her. She went home, knowing exactly the way her father would greet her, knowing just which lamp would be lit so early, finding the supper things laid out where she and Susan would eat — and maybe even what they might fight over, if either felt like fighting. Or maybe they would have that beautiful glow that settles on sisters and brothers sometimes—a fine mutual admiration society lasting but an evening, yet adding another layer of solid regard for a grown-up time eons hence.

Anyway, her world was six-year-old size — respected, enjoyed and unsurprising. People and places were expected to be and look the way they were supposed to, that's all.

Tonight was different. Her suitcase was upstairs in the strange after-five-o'clock-house. Pajamas, slippers, tooth brush, tomorrow's clothes and a nickel for milk at school. Well. Well and good. She thought of those soft, familiar clothes upstairs just where her mother packed them, and felt better about the strangeness.

A person wouldn't want to cry at a time like this. Especially not at the dinner table. Hot dogs, she was awfully fond of hot dogs, and that's what they were having because Annie had said we can have everything we like. And so there were all the best things to eat for six-year-olds. Nothing because it was "balanced diets" or "croteens" or "carvohybrids" or anything grown-up. Just Good. Hot dogs and peanuts and devil's food cake and potato chips and a can of tuna fish and like that.

It was wonderful, after all. Not scary just because it was getting to be bedtime and her mother was at home — not here. She and Annie slept in a big bed upstairs, and oh everything was so silly. First of all, the dolls took up all the room, then the blackboard and the chalk got broke and turned the sheets pink and green. And with everything so funny, Annie's mother called to say lights out right now, but the little girls just couldn't stop giggling. Then forgetting to brush the teeth and getting another glass of water, why it was the middle of the night, practically. Nine-thirty.

Someone took the blackboard away. And the chalk. And got one more drink apiece. And tucked them in. And heard their prayers. And kissed them. Just the same as at home. Then it was morning.

It's a big deal, that first time away from home.

The Lighter Side—

Mine of Information

By DOC QUIGG

NEW YORK (UP)—The earliest duodenal ulcer recorded in medical literature was in 1746. Just 209 years later—on Feb. 5, 1955, in Melbourne, Australia—one Joe Garcia ate 480 oysters in 60 minutes.

Also in 1955 (it was a great gulping year) a Canadian named Glen Johns ate 24 raw eggs in 14 minutes and a Chicagoan named Philip Yazdzik ate 77 hamburgers at one sitting.

And if anybody gives a jolly hoot, it was in 1880 that Johann Ketzler of Germany consumed one whole roast ox in 42 days. There seems to be no information as to whether he ordered it rare or well done. Anyhow, his record still stands.

The egg-laying record (355 in 365 days) was set by a black Australorp in South Africa in 1944-45, and the world handshaking record (8,513 in one day) was set by President Teddy Roosevelt on New Year's Day, 1907.

The world's largest ranch is not in Texas. It is the gang ranch, in British Columbia (more than 3,900,000 acres). The world brick-laying championship (3,472 in 60 minutes) was troweled in East St. Louis, Ill., in 1937 by Joseph Raglon, who, supported by assistants, laid 'em on at a rate of nearly 58 a minute.

These terrific tidbits of information were publicked from a peculiar gold mine named "The Guinness Book of Superlatives," a volume sponsored by a stout fellow in Ireland, and whether you like it or not, it's good for you. As the London publication the spectator commented when the book came out in Britain, "It fills a long unfelt want."

C-M Hospital Nurse Group Purchases New Equipment

Mrs. George Yarborough, R. N., president of the Charleroi-Monessen Hospital Nurses Association, announced today the purchase of two essential pieces of equipment needed by the hospital to implement the educational programs for employees and to provide a further safeguard in the care and treatment of premature infants.

One unit is the oxygen analyzer, which insures regulation of a proper amount of oxygen in the air inside the incubators. This is the guard against blindness to maintain a sufficient quantity to sustain life until the infant is able to undertake the respiratory action.

The second unit purchased is a 16 mm sound projector, which will make available to the Hospital many films which are educational and can be used for instructional and educatinal purposes.

Raises Funds

Mrs. Yarborough pointed out that the Nurses Association raises funds through its many social functions and this money is then put to use in whatever the members feel will contribute most to the well being of the thousands of patients, who annually visit the hospital.

The Nurses Association has contributed $2,000 to the recently completed Building Program of the hospital and is sponsoring an annual nursing scholarship for a deserving girl of the district.

Regular monthly meetings are held by the group and there is a scientific program presented along with the business session to enable the nurses to keep abreast of modern patient care.

World Prayer Day Service Set Tonight

Tonight at 7:30 women of the Protestant Churches of Monessen will join the women "round the world" in a circle of prayer. It will be the local observance of the World Day of Prayer and will be held in the United Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. Ambrose Powney, general chairman, has asked a number of local church women to participate and the service to be followed is "What Shall Separate Us".

An invitation has been extended to anyone who wishes to attend and participate if the missionary guilds in their churches are not sponsoring programs. Mrs. Robert Swaney will discuss a portion of the topic.

The service has been written by Mrs. Bela Vassady, of Lancaster, this year and is dedicated to those people, who are destined to live "behind the iron curtain".

World War Vets Auxiliary Plans Annual Installation

Auxiliary to the World War One Veterans Barracks 350 met in the Elks Club of Charleroi with 21 women present from throughout the valley.

Mrs. Bertha M. Reese, of Monessen, was welcomed as a new member.

Mrs. Louis Roth, president, was in charge of the business session. Three members were reported ill and the husband of one of the members, Edward Murray, was reported as hospitalized at Passavant Hospital, Pittsburgh. His room number is 212.

Publicity chairmen were named and include Mrs. J. Russell Hormell for Charleroi, Mrs. Carl Younkin, Monessen and Belle Vernon, Mrs. Robert Harper, Monongahela.

Mrs. Paul O'Hara was appointed legislative chairman, Mrs. Younkin, program chairman, Agnes Burton, parliamentarian; Mrs. O'Hara reappointed corresponding secretary; Mrs. Robert Harper, refreshment chairman; Mrs. Younkin, pianist.

Mrs. Roth announced that joint installation with the men's group will be March 26 at the Charleroi Elks and the banquet will be at 6:30. Mrs. Murray will serve as banquet chairman. Tickets may be obtained from members of either organization. Also on the committee are Mrs. Mary Mayo, Mrs. Agnes Burton. Mrs. Eva Hormell, Mrs. Hattie Hill and Mrs. Jane Daniels.

Mrs. Jennie Goughnour, state department president, will install the auxiliary officers and Department Commander Leslie Barnhart will install the men's officers. Both are from Uniontown.

The next regular auxiliary meeting will be April 1.

A social hour followed and luncheon was served. The prize was won by Mrs. Christine Edwards.

Banquet reservations can be made with Mrs. Murray at HU 3-8407.

'Speaking of Beauty'
"Do Gentlemen Prefer Blondes?"
James V. Bonafed

DO GENTLEMEN really prefer blondes? We believe any man looks twice at a lady with "bright" hair. It needn't be blonde or auburn, but it should gleam with lovely lights!

**

More women than ever before are wearing a brighter hair colour. Not always to hide grey hair, nor a mousey natural hair shade. Thousands of women wear colour to brighten their whole personalities!

**

MUST YOU submit to bleaching in order to change your hair shade? No indeed! Of course, it stands to reason that a brunette can't become a silver blonde till we've removed her dark natural color But she might lead up to the Big Step easily (and dramatically!) by first asking us to give her blonde streaks, or bright "sun-tips" They're so youthful and smart!)

**

Remember, if you decide on bleaching, today's beauty salon methods have been scientifically perfected for better hair condition. When we bleach your hair, it won't turn to straw. We'll keep each hair strand at its gleaming best. We'll watch it carefully, and give your hair special revitalizing treatments if they're needed. And we'll curl it with a professional permanent waving lotion formulated just for your extra-absorbent tinted-hair.

MANY a dashing modern redhead is a brownette in disguise! But here's the beauty of it: you can try out an exciting auburn shade simply by asking us for a color rinse. (This is "temporary" color, lasting beautifully till your next shampoo. It's the best way we know, to see how much difference a bright hair colour can make in your life!)

**

You can cover grey hair with beautiful fashion colour —or you can turn it to glowing silver with a new professional rinse prepared especially for the grey-haired lady. We have as much variety in silver shades as in other hair colours now! You might choose pearly platinum tones, or "slate greys" . . . or a new deep smokey color so rich it defies words. (We can show you!)

**

IF you're brave enough for lipstick, you're ready for a heady new hair colour. Come in . . . let's talk it over together!

Ike Gives Hall Big Sendoff

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower's advocacy of former GOP National Chairman Leonard Hall for governor of New York appeared today to have headed off a possible serious party rift.

Mr. Eisenhower joined with party leaders in praising Hall Thursday night at a reception in Hall's honor. The President coupled his praise with his unprecedented boost for Hall as a possible candidate for governor of New York.

The President acted to head off a possible rift only a few hours after his press conference remarks earlier in the day had caused some resentment within the party.

Mr. Eisenhower startled a number of party stalwarts with an off-hand remark to reporters that it was "news" to him that Hall might want a high post in the government.

The remark added fuel to complaints of some of Hall's most loyal friends among the GOP "old guard" that the former national chairman had been deliberately shunted to the sidelines.

White House spokesmen at the time of Hall's departure from the national committee had said the President looked forward to the continued service of Hall in public life. That appeared to be a clear indication that a federal job was awaiting him.

Hall, who directed the GOP to its landslide presidential victory last year, had refused comment on the President's remark that there was no "prospective vacancy" in the administration for him.

But friends said he was hurt and somewhat bitter. However, Hall left no doubt today, that he was delighted with Mr. Eisenhower's statement at the reception Thursday night that "if Len Hall wants to run for governor of New York he's going to have one booster in me."

Hall said he still had not decided whether to seek the New York GOP gubernatorial nomination next year.

BARCELONA, Spain (UP)—Film colony friends of bandleader Artie Shaw said today Shaw may return to his Mediterranean villa from Paris next week with actress Evelyn Keyes as his eighth bride.

DISAPPEAR IN ACAPULCO — Mexican police are investigating the strange disappearance of these two New Yorkers, attorney Joseph Michel, 59, and Mrs. Edith Hallock, 42, who vanished Feb. 20 from their Acapulco hotel rooms. Ike's Cough Reported Somewhat Improved

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower fought a head cold with antibiotic drugs today but members of his staff reported his cough is improving steadily.

One of his chief associates said, however, that if the cold and cough show any signs of worsening the President will "drop everything and scoot right out of Washington" to a warmer and more therapeutic climate.

For the time being the President's doctor, Maj. Gen. Howard McC. Snyder, and members of the White House staff saw no reason for the President to leave town. Mr. Eisenhower himself said Thursday this would be an awkward time to leave because of the Middle East situation and with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and Vice President Richard M. Nixon out of the country.

A White House source said "one thing is dead sure—if he does have to leave town, it won't be Arizona." The President brought Arizona into the picture by telling visitors earlier this week he might hop to Tucson for a few days if necessary to lick his cough.

Since then the cough has improved. But the President developed a head cold and began complaining Wednesday night about difficulty with his hearing. An examination by Snyder revealed a slight inflammation of the eustachian tube leading from the left ear.

The President's ear was packed with cotton most of Thursday. But because the ear was feeling better in the late afternoon, he removed the packing before attending a party in the Senate caucus room for Leonard W. Hall, former chairman of the Republican National Committee.

When the President entered the crowded room, Sen. George H. Bender (R-Ohio) asked if he would like a highball. Mr. Eisenhower eyed the nearby bar but said he'd better take a soft drink instead because he was "full of antibiotics." He also passed up the pretzels, potato chips and nuts.

Wigs were popular in Europe when Louis XIII began to grow bald and turned to elaborate wigs which were imitated by his followers.

Inquiry Opens into Collision of Ships in River; 10 Men Missing

NEW CASTLE, Del. (UP) — Navy and Coast Guard investigators delved today into causes of a collision that sent a Navy-owned gasoline tanker to explosive death on the Delaware River, carrying down 10 men with her.

The 10 men aboard the Mission San Francisco when she was rammed by the Liberian freighter Elna II were missing and presumed dead. Among them were the Mission's captain, William Allen, 54, of Galveston, Tex., and a pilot, Capt. Ralph Smith of New York.

Thirty-five other men on the tanker and the 23-member crew of the freighter were saved.

A team of investigators and a salvage supervisor were sent by the Navy to the scene and the Coast Guard questioned some of the survivors in Philadelphia. The Coast Guard said a three-man Marine board will investigate the collision at a hearing in Philadelphia Monday. Testimony will be taken and recommendations sent to Washington.

The collision occurred early Thursday on a bend of the Delaware River near here, known as the "graveyard of ships." The outbound Elna sliced the 5,739 ton Mission in two about midships, touching off an explosion that wrapped the empty vessels in flame and rocked a wide area.

The 4,500 ton Elna, enroute to Baltimore after discharging a cargo of wood at Wilmington, Del., ran aground. The tanker, on its way to Paulsboro to take on cargo, sank five hours later.

Alexander Karre, master of the Elna, said he was on the bridge when the ships collided with visibility close to six miles despite a fall of rain mixed with sleet and light snow.

Karre, 62, of Toronto, Ont., said the freighter failed to acknowledge a signal and cut across his bow. He said he could not turn to avoid the collision because of a jetty running north of Pea Patch Island.

$105,000 Satchel Of Diamonds Is Misplaced

DENVER (UP)—Police were studying the possibility today that a satchel containing $105,000 in diamonds may have been given away by mistake by a downtown hotel here.

The locked satchel, containing uncut blue diamond stones, set diamonds, and diamond-encrusted watch cases, was checked at the Albany Hotel Wednesday night by Edward G. Shedlin, a salesman for Shedlin, Inc., of New York City.

Assistant Hotel Manager James L. Covey said he gave Shedlin a claim check and put the satchel in the hotel safe. Homer Stevens, manager of the hotel, said the satchel was gone when Shedlin asked for it at 9:30 a.m. Thursday.

Outlaw Sentenced

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Edward G. Outlaw, 29, of nearby Homestead, was sentenced Thursday to five years in prison for burglary. Judge William F. Cercone told him: "You certainly lived up to your name."

Let's Straighten Record on Townsend

Let's set the record straight. A couple of days ago we reported that West Newton's retiring coach, S. S. Townsend won 32 games, lost eight and tied three when he directed the Monessen High football fortunes some four decades back. Unfortunately, the MHS record book has short-changed Townsend. A closer check reveals that his Greyhound teams actually won 46 games, while losing seven and tying two. The error is not hard to explain. The Monessen record book lists Andy White as the 1915 coach when Townsend was actually at the helm. In 1922, Towney is still listed as the Greyhound boss when J. W. Shields actually had control. So much for correcting the mistake.

* * *

There was a big squabble in Charleroi this week over the distribution of tickets for the Derry Twp. game. Obviously it was a big ado about nothing. The Cougars were given 2,333 tickets to sell in advance. Since the actual crowd was only 2,088, there must have been a lot of ducats left over in the Magic City . . . By the way, the small turnout at early WPIAL Tournament games emphasizes an earlier suggestion that certain tourney contests be played in high school gyms. Certainly the MHS floor would have been large enough to accommodate all tourney crowds to date. Monessen fans, alone, would have added measurably to the turnouts and the gym rental would have been one-sixth that of the Pitt Field House.

* * *

Pennline Calm after Cougar Tussle

The calmest man in the Field House following Charleroi's 53-51 verdict over Derry Twp. was Cougar Coach Henry Pennline. "We won and that's the important thing," said the Charleroi boss who has been known to get excited in the past . . . Pennline also wasted no time in apologizing for the action of his standout forward Myron Pottios, who slugged Derry star Dick Falenski after the final whistle. There was no excuse for the incident, even though Pottios and Falenski had been carrying on a tug-of-war through-out the game . . . Unhappily the post-game antic will probably add to the pressure already building up on the Cougars. From now on, crowds will be hostile to the Mon Valley champs.

* * *

Monessen's Bud Roman and Boots Salotti are among the officials working the current Westmoreland County Basketball Tournament at the fine Hempfield High floor . . . St. Vincent football coach Al DeLuca has been approached by a big eastern university to take a coaching job. DeLuca is undecided at the moment but he promises a decision "within the next week or so." . . . Carroll Twp. Junior High plans to add football to its sports program next Fall. A large sweep of land adjoining the school is now being levelled for a football field.

* * *

Ozarks May Field Baseball Team

Should Monessen CIO fail to field a team in the Mon Valley League this season, look for the Monessen Ozarks to reorganize their diamond entry. The Ozarks, devoted exclusively to promoting better sports in Monessen, have indicated that they'll keep the city represented in the valley circuit . . . That time-worn rumor has been making the rounds again that a certain WPIAL contender has been sneaking in practice sessions at the Pitt Field House. It just isn't so . . . By the way, at least three WPIAL hopefuls have practiced at the MHS gym in the past week or so. Charleroi has been here often, while Ford City and Perryopolis have also worked out on the spacious Greyhound court.

Lose to Charleroi In Tourney

Monessen's City League All-Stars were no match for Charleroi in the annual Monongahela Booster Club Tournament last night.

The depleted Monessen forces bowed, 69-59.

In another match, Donora hammered Monongahela, 70-52.

As a result, Donora and Charleroi will meet tonight at 9 o'clock in the Monongahela High gym for the 1957 title. Monessen and Monongahela will clash in the consolation at 7:30.

Monessen went into last night's game, minus its top three players. Mike Young has reported to preseason baseball camp, while Paul Kunsa and Sam Dominico both missed connections because of work assignments.

As it was, the Monessen dribblers put up quite a game. They led 29-27 at intermission.

Charleroi Roars

However Charleroi roared in the third period, ripping the cords for 28 points, compared to just 13 for the losers.

Fred Uhlman, all-around Magic City athlete, led his team with 19 points.

Three other Charleroi players hit double-figures. Mike Buraczewski connected for 15, Stan Milchovich had 14 and Joe Giamalva came through with 10.

For Monessen, Jim Bricker was high with 18. Leroy Stover contributed 12.

No Action Planned Against Myron Pottios

No disciplinary action will be taken against Myron Pottios, Charleroi High School athlete who "lost his head" following Wednesday's WPIAL Tournament game with Derry Twp.

Both Edwin Luse, principal at Charleroi High School, and Harry Pharaoh, chairman of the WPIAL Basketball Committee, said today that no penalities will be applied to Pottios for punching Derry star Dick Falenski following the game.

Myron Pottios

Luce pointed out that this was the first such incident charged to Pottios, who was recognized following the 1956 football season as the valley's finest sportsman. He received the annual Beck Memorial Trophy at the Big Six banquet for his fine conduct as an athlete.

Pottios was quick to take the blame for his actions once his temper cooled.

Sorry It Happened

"I know I was wrong and I'm sorry it happened."

Pottios said Falenski "went to work" on him early in the game. "He started to needle me from the very beginning. He tugged at my pants and even threw some elbows at me."

Falenski readily admitted the needling.

"I kept talking to him all during the game and I even told him he should stick to football," said Falenski. "There's nothing wrong with that. They do the same thing to me."

D. L. Glunt, Charleroi superintendent of schools, make a public apology for Pottios' behavior.

"I'm shocked. The boy (Pottios) told me he was in wrong and he apologized for it. But there's no excuse for it and I want everybody to know we do not condone such action."

Model Athlete

Both basketball coach Henry Pennline and athletic director James (Rab) Currie also said they were sorry about the whole thing, but they pointed out that Pottios has been a model athlete.

A WPIAL spokesman said no disciplinary action will be taken because the incident happened after the game. He said Derry will have to file a formal protest for the WPIAL Committee to act.

At Derry, officials seemed willing to forgive today, although they made it clear that they felt at least some token of discipline should be meeted out.

Falenski, by far the standout player in the game, apparently suffered no serious hurts as a result of the punch.

Three Streaks At Stake in Bout Tonight

NEW YORK (UP) — Three streaks will be risked tonight when sensational young Sugar Hart and upsetter Walter Byars make their Madison Square Garden main event debuts in a welterweight 10-rounder.

Hart of Philadelphia risks his string of seven straight knockouts and his streak of 12 straight victories while Byars of Boston stakes his unbeaten cluster of 10, which includes one draw. Walter is New England welterweight champion.

This meeting of streamlined Hart, with the Elvis Presley sideburns, and stubby Byars, with the low bob-and - weave, will be televised and broadcast nationally by NBC.

Kayo specialist Hart is favored at 4-1 because of the punch which stopped 18 of his 21 opponents. And he won 20 of those 21 bouts. The 21-year-old Sugar Boy lost but once, on a first-round kayo by Fred Terry two years ago.

Byars, 25, is a comparatively light hitter who stopped but four of his 19 opponents. However, the ex-Marine had but two defeats and one draw, and never kayoed.

Two Sweeps in Furnace Loop

Pig Machine blanked Steam Plant and Cast House swept over Blow Room in Blast Furnace Bowling League action last night.

In another match, Mechanical won a pair from Electrical.

Scoring leaders were Steve Szabo, 197-523; Jim Szabo, 193-551; Mike Adamio, 187-484; Walt Cieply, 184-491; Bill Valko, 223-537; and Nick Carrozza, 154-428.

Standings show Electrical, 20-13; Steam Plant, 19-14; Cast House, 17-16; Mechanical, 17-16; Blow Room, 14-19; Pig Machine, 12-21.

Bozik Named Lafayette Capt.

EASTON, Pa. (UP) — Quarterback Joseph Bozik, Donora, Pa., and guard William Harrick, Punxsutawney, Pa., have been named co-captains of the 1957 Lafayette College Football team, it was announced today. Both are juniors.

Monessen Fifth Bowlers Go to Donora Tonight

Monessen Fifth Avenue, coasting to a first place finish in the Mon Valley Ladies Bowling League, will go to Donora tonight for a 9:30 p. m. date.

The city girls stayed nine games in front of the chase last weekend by sweeping over the Belle Vernon Merchants.

Mary Palm led the winners with a 191-468 chart. For Belle Vernon, Ida Picchiarini was high with a 186-393 tally.

In other weekend matches, Donora won two of three from Bentleyville, Monongahela swept over Scottdale; Fredericktown handled Vestaburg in two games; and Connellsville won two from Charleroi.

Individual Leaders

Individual leaders were Peg Johnston (Donora) 217-559; Peg Kampo (Bentleyville) 179-522; Helen Koch (Monongahela) 151-418; Gwen Clark (Scottdale) 148-398; Rachel Jenkins (Vestaburg) 198-478; Midge Baily (Fredericktown) 146-415; Lola Beasley (Charleroi) 186-437; and Nanch Hudock (Connellsville) 174-459.

Standings show Monessen, 61-14; Uniontown, 55-23; Donora, 46-32; Fredericktown, 46-32; Monongahela, 46-32; Charleroi, 44-34; Bentleyville, 39-39; Connellsville, 37-41; Scottdale, 28-50; Belle Vernon, 28-50; and Vestaburg, 21-57.

MHS Volleyball Team in Tourney Next Tues. Night

Monessen High's volleyball team will take part in a tournament next Tuesday at the Bentleyville High floor.

Other entries will include the host Bears, Waynesburg, Ellsworth and Charleroi.

The tourney, scheduled to begin at 7 p. m., will serve as a tune-up for the annual WPIAL show at North Braddock Scott on March 22.

Monessen is the defending WPIAL and PIAA champion.

Coach John (Corky) DeMillion has been working with 42 boys the past several weeks, grooming his current club.

Only Carl Crawley is back from last year's great team. However DeMillion isn't ready to concede anything yet. As a matter of fact, he appears unusually optimistic.

Monessen will also sponsor a team in the Junior WPIAL tourney on April 4.

Canes Roll over Foes, 66-47, in County Tourney

Bellmar High's unpredictable basketballers pulled the first big surprise of the Westmoreland County Tournament last night, rolling over New Kensington at the Hempfield High gym, 66-47.

The Hurricanes, coached by Jack Flora, were never really in trouble. They stepped off to a 13-8 lead in the first period and widened the gap to 32-21 by intermission.

From then on, the hot-shooting Canes coasted home.

Three Bellmar boys hit double-figures. Jim Bitonti connected for 17 points. John Hewitt had 15 and Bob Beggs chipped in with 13.

Jones Top Scorer

For the losers, Nolan Jones was high with a dozen markers.

The win advanced Bellmar to a quarter-final test tonight against Derry Twp. beginning at 9.

Derry is the team which battled Charleroi right down to the final whistle in the WPIAL Tournament on Wednesday.

Former Wrestler To Appear at Church Event

Gene Stanley, who wrestled his way to the title "Mr. America", will speak at the Webster Methodist Church on Sunday at 7:30 p. m.

Stanley, a former television favorite has now embarked on a career as an Evangelist.

During his ring days, Stanley wrestled under many names, including the Shiek of Araby, Jean Valjean and John The Wrestler.

Stanley graduated with high honors from the University of Paris. He started his sports career as a boxer and once won 27 consecutive bouts by knockouts.

The burly athlete visited German Youth camps during the reign of Adolph Hitler. He saw first hand the disastrous results of youth without God.

Stanley's appearance in Webster is being sponsored by the Rostraver Township Youth and the Webster Community Church Service Committee.

There will be special features by the 40 Voice Rostraver Youth Choir, Sutherland Trio, Rostraver Woodwind Quartet and the Rostraver High School Basketball Team. Rev. Nick Joseph will be song leader.

The public is invited to attend. There will be no admission charge.

Red Wings Move In Front Again

By UNITED PRESS

The pace-setting Detroit Red Wings, who frittered away most of an eight-point lead over the Montreal Canadiens last week, were a comfortable five points in front today with only eight games left to play in the National Hockey League race.

The Red Wings, who also have a game in hand on the Canadiens, defeated the Boston Bruins, 4-2, Thursday night as Alex Delvecchio scored a pair of goals and assisted on a third to lead the way.

The New York Rangers moved seven points up on the Toronto Maple Leafs in their battle for the fourth and last playoff spot by playing a 2-2 tie with the last-place Chicago Black Hawks.

West Newton Hi Vs. Aspinwall

Teams Meet Tonight in Class B Quarter-Final Tourney Tussle

West Newton High's ambitious basketball team will challenge undefeated Aspinwall tonight in the quarter-final round of the Class B WPIAL Basketball Tournament.

Tipoff time for the game at the McKeesport Vocational Gym is 8 p. m.

Both teams have appeared once before in the current tournament. West Newton rapped Perry, 76-58, in a special Section 17 playoff assignment, while Aspinwall nipped Neville, 42-40, in a first round encounter.

Aspinwall, Section 19 kingpin, rules as a slight favorite this evening.

20 Straight Win

The Cavaliers romped through 20 straight games during the regular season without a loss. To post a record like that, a team has to have something.

Thus the experts are discounting Aspinwall's shaky two point decision over under-rated Neville last week.

The Cavaliers will start Danny Frauenheim, 6-1; Ed Hughes, 5-10; Bruce Brosious, 6-3; Pierce Frauenheim, 5-10, and Ted Williams, 5-10.

Star of the team is Danny Frauenheim, a clever senior in his third season as a regular.

West Newton will probably open with Ray Johnston, Otto Leona, Eugene Letterio, Bud Morrison and Barry McCoy.

Johnston Tallest

That quintet has carried most of the burden this season. Johnson stretches about 6-2, while the remaining four hover around the 6-0 mark.

The Hornets, coached by the veteran S. S. Townsend, rely on speed and a solid defense. They have parlayed those two specialties all season long to get themselves into the WPIAL show.

West Newton is the tourney's sentimental favorite. Townsend, who will retire at the end of the current school year, has been coaching for four decades and fans hereabouts are pulling hard for him to bow out in real style.

Ford City Nips Baldwin, 45-43, In Tourney Play

By UNITED PRESS

Ford City, Wampum and Shannock Valley won quarterfinal games in the WPIAL basketball tournament Thursday night.

Ford City nipped Baldwin, 45-43, Wampum handled McDonald, 78-53, and Shannock Valley rambled over Edgewood, 76-65.

Ford City, of Section 1, didn't win its Class A game with Baldwin, of Section 13, until the final buzzer when Jim Wingate dropped in a set shot. The game, played at the Pitt Field House, was tied eight times. Ford City led at halftime, 24-20.

Gene Lazaroff of Ford City had 17 points. Roger Smith and Robert Spavero of Baldwin each had 14.

Unbeaten Wampum of Section 20 won its 25th consecutive game with ease. McDonald, of Section 15, got as close as 28-25 in the second period but the Indians quickly pulled away to a 47-28 halftime lead. The game, played at New Brighton, ended with Wampum leading 78-53.

Allen Top Scorer

Center Harold Allen of Wampum was high scorer with 25 points. Teammate Jerry Grinnen had 16. Ed Gonze was high for McDonald with 13.

Edgewood, of Section 16, outscored Shannock Valley, Section 21 champs, in the first period, 20-14, and had a halftime lead of 31-29. But midway in the third period Shannock Valley took the lead for the first time. The lead shifted several times after that but the winners eventually went in front to stay, at 63-62, in the final period. The final score was 76-65.

Haky Scores 25

Forward Leo Haky led the winners with 25 points, while Ralph Olson was high for the losers with 30.

Ford City will play a semi-final at the Pitt Field House March 15 against the winner of next Tuesday night's Uniontown-McKeesport game.

Both Wampum and Shannock Valley will play their semifinal games, against opponents yet to be decided, at the Field House March 14.

Gomez Needs Transportation

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UP)—Ruben Gomez couldn't be expected to run all the way from his Puerto Rican home to the New York Giants' training camp here, Horace Stoneham, club president, admitted Thursday.

Threatened with a fine for not reporting on time, the veteran pitcher wired Stoneham he had been ready to travel for a week but lacked transportation.

"I'll have to apologize to Gomez," said Stoneham. "It wasn't his fault. Seems the airlines fouled up his transportation."

Gomez, who now is expected to join the Giants either Sunday or Monday, won only seven games and dropped 17 last season. He showed better form as a runner, outsprinting Joe Adcock to the clubhouse in one mid-season game at Milwaukee after throwing a ball at the husky Braves' first baseman.

Minner Looks Good for Bucs

FORT MYERS, Fla. (UP)—Pitcher Paul Minner came up with the most encouraging performance in the Pittsburgh Pirates' intrasquad doubleheader Thursday.

Minner, pitching for the first time since last June when he suffered back and neck injuries while playing for the Cubs, faced just seven batters in two innings and said he had no aches or pains. Minner is in the Pirate camp on a trial basis.

The Danny Murtaughs defeated the Clyde Sukeforths in both games, 4-1 and 5-0.

Outfielder Bill Virdon, second leading hitter in the National League last season, was saved from possible serious injury by a plastic helmet. He was hit on the head when catcher Dick Rand tried to pick him off at third base. The ball cracked the helmet.

Dr. Joe Finegold, the club physician, said that without the hat Virdon probably would have suffered a concussion and possibly a fracture.

Chestnut to Sub in Bout

NEW YORK (UP) —Ike Chestnut of New York has been named to replace the ailing Isidro Martinez of Panama for his March 15 Madison Square Garden date with Gil Cadilli of Los Angeles. Martinez is suffering from intestinal flu, Cadilli, the fifth ranking featherweight, beat Chestnut in Houston, Tex., on Oct. 30, 1956 on a one-point decision.

In olden times, pie was served as the main course instead of dessert.

Haney Burned Up over Rumors About Braves

BRADENTON, Fla., (UP) — Fred Haney is burned up over the growing tendency to classify his Milwaukee Braves as "the play boys" of the National League.

According to Haney, the label is "absolutely unwarranted." He said it stemmed from erroneous reports that he had fixed a curfew violation fine of $500.

Those reports added fuel to the flames which Jackie Robinson ignited when he said the Braves lost the pennant last year because several of their key players, whom he did not identify, were staying up until the early hours of dawn.

No Rules Yet

"Why, the only rule I have in camp right now is for the players to report for practice every day at a given time," Haney declared heatedly. "No manager, and I'm no exception, sets any rules until he starts trimming down his squad to the players who are going to stick.

"Once I decide on my varsity, I'll have a meeting with the players and I'll work out the rules with them. I'll let them decide pretty much what the rules should be.

"And once we decide what they should be, believe me, they'll live up to 'em or else."

One Thing Clear

Haney is not noted as a stern and strict disciplinarian — but there is one thing he wanted to make clear:

"I don't know what our rules are going to be this year, but I do know this—they won't be harsh ones. Whatever they are, they will be enforced. Our business is winning ball games and that's what we are going to concentrate on starting April 16. Any rules we decide upon will be with only that view in mind.

North Carolina, West Virginia Head for Remaining NCAA Spots

By UNITED PRESS

A record-busting scoring spree by Lennie Rosenbluth and a carefree clowning show by Hot Rod Hundley sent North Carolina and West Virginia surging closer today to the only two berths remaining in the NCAA Basketball Tournament.

Yale became the 21st team in the 23-team carnival Thursday night when it inherited the Ivy League championship as runner-up Dartmouth lost to Harvard, 69-60.

North Carolina, the nation's No. 1 team, is expected to win the Atlantic Coast Conference Tournament and qualify for an NCAA game against Yale in New York next Tuesday. And, led by Rosenbluth, the Tar Heels easily won their opening ACC game Thursday night, 81-61, over Clemson.

Len Score 45 Points

Rosenbluth's 45 points eclipsed a 41-point effort earlier in the day by Grady Wallace, South Carolina's national scoring leader, and set two ACC tourney records—for points in a single game, and 19 baskets in one game. What's more, the All-American from New York City turned the trick against triple-teaming in the second half after scoring 27 in the first half.

Hundley, who was named to the United Press All-America team with Rosenbluth and Wallace earlier this week, was just out for laughs Thursday night. While his teammates romped to a 71-51 victory over Davidson in the Southern Conference Tournament at Richmond, Va., the Hot Rod scorned scoring.

For the first time in his college career Hundley didn't score a basket. He didn't really try, for he took only six shots and one of those was from behind his back. His four free throws gave him the lowest point total of his career. But Hundley "wowed" a delighted crowd with his antics — dribbling while kneeling, passing off behind his back, and rolling the ball up one arm and down the other.

As a result of Thursday's action, here are the semi-final pairings tonight in the two "tourneys for a tourney berth:"

Atlantic Coast: North Carolina vs. Wake Forest; South Carolina vs. Maryland.

Southern: West Virginia vs. Richmond; Washington and Lee vs Virginia Tech.

Seattle, Bradley NIT Favorites

The National Invitation Tournament in New York announced that it has seeded only two teams in its 12-team field — Seattle (22-2) and Bradley (19-6). It announced the following pairings:

March 16: Utah vs. Memphis State; Seton Hall vs. Xavier (Ohio); Dayton vs. St. Peter's; Cincinnati vs. St. Bonaventure. March 18: Seattle s. vCincinnati-St. Bonaventure winner; Manhattan vs. Utah-Memphis State winner; March 19: Bradley vs. Seton Hall-Xavier winner; Temple vs. Dayton-St. Peter's winner.

In other leading games Thursday night— NIT-bound Manhattan crushed Wagner, 100-67; NYU beat St. John's, 67-55; and Muhlenberg upset Seton Hall, 76-65.

McGuire Is Named UP Coach of the Year

NEW YORK (UP)—Frank McGuire, who transferred his big grin and a bevy of talented college basketball players from New York to the University of North Carolina, today was voted United Press Coach of the year.

McGuire's Tar Heels, nine of whom hail from the New York City area, swept 24 games to become the only major college able to finish the regular 1956-57 season with a perfect record. This showing earned McGuire coach of the year honors by a huge margin in a nationwide poll of 267 sports writers and broadcasters.

Receivec 150 Votes

The 42-year-old coach received 150 votes, 54 per cent of the total cast although 33 coaches were mentioned on the ballots. Adolph Rupp, whose Kentucky Wildcats won the Southeastern Conference title, was a distant second with 22 votes. Bill Stranigan of Iowa State was third with 13.

Branch McCracken of Indiana was next with eight votes and Forrest (Forddy) Anderson of Michigan State was fifth with seven. Donald (Dudey) Moore of Duquesne, a two-time winner of the United Press poll, was next with six. Freddie Schaus of West Virginia, Pete Newell of California, Johnny Wooden of UCLA, Joe Curran of Canisius and Babe McCarthy of Mississippi State each received five votes. John Castellani of Seattle and Doc Hayes of Southern Methodist were next with four apiece.

Must Win Tourney

McGuire's Tar Heels finished first in the ACC this season but must win the current conference tournament to assure themselves a berth in the NCAA championships.

McGuire moved to North Carolina after guiding St. John's of New York to 106 victories against 36 defeats in five seasons. No New York school has challenged seriously for the national title since his 1952 St. John's team went to the final of the NCAA Tournament before losing to Kansas.

Athletics Have Electronic Scout

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (UP)— An electronic "scout" has invaded the baseball training camp of the Kansas City Athletics.

Lou Boudreau, manager of the A's, disclosed today he has been using a radar speed meter to determine the speed of his pitchers during current practice sessions.

The medical corps of the United States Army was organized in 1818.

Millersville Trips Geneva In NAIA Action

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa. (UP) —Millersville State Teachers, by virtue of a convincing 81-68 victory over Geneva here Thursday night, will enter the NAIA Basketball Tournament in Kansas City next week as champion of District 30.

The Marauders parlayed superior rebounding and poor Geneva shooting for the victory. John Parker with 22 points and John Laszek with 18 paced the Lancaster County school.

Geneva, victim of inaccurate first half shooting, was led by Billy Blair's 16 points. John Swogger and Len Clarke of the losers had 13 each.

Millersville dominated the backboards. The winners took a 16-15 lead midway in the first half on a bucket by Parker and never fell behind. The closest Geneva could come in the second half was within five points at 47-52.

The Marauders held a 34-27 halftime advantage.

Meyer to Coach College All-Stars

NEW YORK (UP) —Ray Meyer, DePaul University basketball coach, again has been named to lead the College All-Stars against the Harlem Globetrotters in the annual post-season tour. Meyer has guided the collegians against the Globetrotters since the cross-country tour was inaugurated in 1950. This year's tour opens in Madison Square Garden, March 31.

Egypt Opens Suez Canal to Small Ships

CAIRO (UP)—Egypt opened the Suez Canal today to small ships (500 tons or under) and prepared to speed clearance of the entire waterway when the last Israeli troops leave Sharm El Sheikh.

British and French ships were included in the order by Egypt's Suez Canal Authority, but it appeared that Israeli vessels were excluded automatically as they have been since 1948.

The canal authority was expected to give the clearance go ahead to Lt. Gen. Raymond A. Wheeler, in charge of U.N. salvage operations, within a few hours after the last Israeli troops leave Sharm El Sheikh.

Well-informed sources in Cairo said the Suez would continue to be barred to Israeli shipping and that Egypt was determined to prevent Israeli shipping from passing through the Straits of Tiran, the 800-yard wide entrance to the Gulf of Aqaba. Sharm El Sheikh controls the Straits of Tiran.

Woman's Club Ready for Fair at School Tomorrow

The March meeting of the West Newton Woman's Club was held Monday evening at the First Methodist Church. The meeting was conducted by Mrs. Warren Cumpson.

Plans have been completed for the "Civic Project", an old-fashioned country fair, to be held in the high school gymnasium tomorrow. The fair will open at 10 a. m. and continue through the evening with many novel features for patrons of all ages.

A country kitchen promises to be interesting to those who remember the old time kitchen as well as those who have no such memories. The members have contributed many useful and decorative items to be sold in the "Next to New" booth.

A bake sale will be conducted, and there will be a fish pond for the youngsters. At another booth, the Girl Scouts will present an exhibit.

Hometown movies will be shown with special entertainment and fun for the children.

The club was entertained with a folk lore program presented by Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Hill, of East Pittsburgh. With the aid of a piano and guitar they presented many familiar folk songs in which the audience joined.

The committee was headed by Betty Lecky with the following aides: Mrs. Harriet Mason, Mrs. Mildred McCurdy, Mrs. Josephine Taylor, Mrs. Emma Jean Pritchard, Mrs. Joanne Reppert, Mrs. Betty Skolskie, Mrs. Thelma Smith, Mrs. Lucille Hall, Mary Moody and Mrs. Violet Lash.

State Files Answers to Suits of Suspended 'Pike Commissioners

HARRISBURG (UP) — The state Justice Department has filed answers to suits brought by two suspended Pennsylvania Turnpike commissioners seeking restoration to their posts.

The answers were filed in Dauphin County Court to suits brought by Commission Chairman G. Franklin McSorley, Pittsburgh, and Commissioner James F. Torrance, Export, who were suspended by Gov. George M. Leader following their indictments by a Dauphin County grand jury.

Attorney General Thomas D. McBride said the suspensions were justified "to insure the efficient and economical administration" of the agency. He said the governor had the "duty" to suspend both commissioners because if they continued to serve they would be "in a position to hinder the investigation of their own misbehavior, to destroy evidence of their own misbehavior and to impede the discovery of the wrongdoing of others."

McBride cited the grand jury action in returning indictments against McSorley and Torrance as "probable cause to believe the truth" of the charges brought against them.

McSorley was charged with misconduct in office for allegedly supplying a chauffeur for former chairman Thomas J. Evans, Coaldale.

Torrance is one of 22 persons charged with criminal conspiracy in an alleged plot to swindle the commission of $19,500,000 through contracts for mine filling under that Northeastern Extension of the turnpike.

The governor named Merritt Williamson, of Pennsylvania State University, as commission vice chairman to direct turnpike affairs pending disposition of the indictments.

Husband Dies On Boat; Wife Drifts in Gulf

TAVERNIER, Fla. (UP) — A middle-aged woman remained in shock today from her two days of helpless drifting in the Gulf of Mexico in a boat with the lifeless body of her husband.

Mrs. Claretta Fleck, 62, of South Miami, spent almost 48 hours with the body of her husband after he apparently had a fatal heart attack after working on a fouled boat rudder at sea.

A passing fisherman, Al Grace, discovered Mrs. Fleck's plight Thursday and towed her craft to port with his own boat from far out in the gulf.

Coroner George Rawlings said Mrs. Fleck was in an advanced stage of shock. She was near hysteria when brought to shore here.

The coroner said he learned from the woman that she and her husband, Richard C. Fleck, 57, had left home last Friday for a week's outing aboard their cabin cruiser. She said Fleck went over the side Tuesday to fix a fouled rudder. When he came back on board, he collapsed and died at her feet, she said.

Mrs. Fleck said she did not know how to start the engine. She said she painted the word "HELP" on a large white towel but no one came by until Grace's boat spotted her.

Church Pastor Warns Against Any Infidelity

LONDON (UP)— Rev. Evan Pilkington has sent his parishioners a six page sermon on sex warning them against letting their marital love life get down to the barnyard level, the Daily Sketch reported today.

"Are you content to be a dog and a bitch in a street, a bull and a cow in a field, a pig and a sow in a sty?" asked the 40-year-old vicar of Holy Trinity Church in the London suburb of Upper Tooting.

"That is exactly what you are being if you are promiscuous and irresponsible about sex," he declared.

The sermon mailed to his flock supplements of his lectures to prospective married couples and the two books on sex he gives them, the Daily Sketch reported.

"Tear them up after you've read them," the Sketch said Pilkington advises. "You can't make love with a book in one hand."

Work at Home In Washington To Cost More

A remodeling project at the Washington County home will exceed original expenditures by about $35,000, it was announced today.

Original plans called for an expenditure of $120,000. However, after studying plans in Harrisburg with Architect S. Loyd Beall, a new figure of $150,000 was cited.

The commissioners are hoping that some of the additional cost will be borne by the state; since a bond issue was already floated last year in the amount of $120,000.

State Sen. W. J. Lane said he expected to meet with state Welfare Secretary Harry Shapiro this week in the hope that some funds would be made available.

No additional building is planned, but repairs will be extensive. Since the remodeling of the former children's home into a hospital for aged women more than a year ago, the home has been used exclusively for aged men.

Small Babies in Town in England

CHELTENHAM, England (UP) —This spa resort town asked England's Health Ministry today to investigate why so many babies born here are too small to live.

The infant mortality rate here has risen to 29 per 1,000.

Dr. George Bramley, town medical officer, said a "staggering number" of babies were being born under 3 pounds 4 ounces, some as small as 2 pounds.

The Gloucestershire County Health Committee said it could offer no reason for the mystery. It said the infant death rate in the rest of the county is only 20 in 1,000.

Ezra Benson Keeps Principles, Religion in His Political Life

(Does a devout churchman find it necessary to check his religious scruples at the door when he enters the political arena? Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson, the first clergyman to serve in the cabmet since the Civil War, answered this and other questions about the ethical problems of a man in public life in an exclusive interview with United Press religious writer Louis Cassels.)

By LOUIS CASSELS

WASHINGTON (UP) — Ezra T. Benson, the first clergyman to serve in the cabinet since the Civil War, said today his four stormy years as secretary of agriculture have convinced him that "you don't have to sacrifice your principles to perform effectively in a political post."

"I have never found it necessary to wink at my religion in order to carry on my government job," said the devout Mormon leader who has occupied one of the hottest seats in Washington since the Eisenhower administration took office in January, 1953. "If I did, I wouldn't stay here 24 hours."

Mr. Benson

Benson is an ordained minister and former foreign missionary. He has been a member of the Council of the Twelve Apostles, ruling body of the Mormon Church, since 1943.

Involves All Activities

He said in an interview that he regards government service as a Christian vocation, as honorable in the sight of God as in the ministry or any other calling.

He also believes that religion, if sincere, must be the guiding influence in all of a man's activities—in politics, business, family life and recreation—and not merely a "separate compartment of life reserved for Sunday morning."

These convictions are reflected in Benson's custom of opening all of his Agriculture Department staff conferences with prayer.

"I believe very deeply in the possibility of finding divine inspiration for your daily work if you seek for it," he said. "I've had enough evidence of it to satisfy me beyond the shadow of a doubt."

Benson said he does not expect God to provide specific "answers to detailed problems of farm policy. "I would not ask the Almighty where to set the price support level on a crop," he explained. "That is an economic, not a moral, issue."

Seeks Right Decisions

What he does seek, and is confident he has received, is overall guidance to "make decisions in the right way."

Benson's strong conviction that he is carrying out God's will in his farm policies has been a frequent source of irritation to his political opponents, and particularly to some farm state congressmen who sincerely and vigorously disagree with him.

But the "inner security" which he draws from this conviction has been a major factor in Benson's ability to remain relatively unruffled in the face of some of the sharpest political and personal attacks ever directed at a public figure.

"I never get too upset by all this controversy so long as I feel in my heart that I'm doing what's right," he said.

Missionary to Stay in Red China He Says

HONG KONG (UP)—American missionary Paul A. Mackensen, released Tuesday from a Chinese prison, said today by telephone from Shanghai he intends to stay in Communist China.

The Chinese announced Mackensen's release Thursday, exactly five years after the Philadelphia Lutheran was arrested in Tsingtao and sentenced to five years in prison.

He was one of 10 Americans held prisoner by the Chinese.

"I am not planning to leave China immediately," Mackensen told United Press in a telephone conversation from Shanghai. "I am trying to find myself work in Shanghai."

The Philadelphian said he did not know what kind of work he could find, but he said the Reds in releasing him gave him the impression he was "free to live in China as I wish."

WOMEN SAFER — These nine "crackups" represent the Metropolitan Life Insurance company's findings that men drivers at age 21 have nearly eight times as many fatalities as women drivers at age 21. Death rate for male 21-year-olds in 1953-55 was 64.1 per 100,000, and for women in the same period, 8.4.

Grants Money to Pay Deficiencies

HARRISBURG (UP)—The House has approved and sent to the state Senate legislation to appropriate $7,767,000 to the Public Assistance Department to cover deficiencies expected at the close of the current biennium, May 31.

The legislation would pay for assistance and administrative expenses above the department's current budget and those carried over from the 1953-55 biennium. It cleared the House, 182-0.

Says Oil Exports Heavy

WASHINGTON (UP) — W. K. Whiteford, president of Gulf Oil Corp., said yesterday that his company has been doing its best to help keep oil moving to Europe.

Whiteford testified before the oil-investigating Senate anti-monopoly and public lands subcommittees.

"Including the diversion of Middle East exports," Whiteford said, "I believe we can say that Gulf has contributed an average of 132,000 barrels daily and a total of 16,250,000 barrels of crude and finished products to Europe during the last quarter of 1956 and through Jan. 31. 1957."

The witness said big oil companies are accused of not operating in the public interest. He asked for permission to present a rebuttal.

"You should appreciate," Whiteford said, "that our domestic crude and product shipments to Europe in the last quarter of 1956 consituted heavy withdrawals from our stocks. If we had wanted to be price gougers, we could have held this crude in anticipation of a price increase which we believed to be imminent and justified."

Whiteford said that "by making these heavy withdrawals, we may place ourselves in a vulnerable position in the event of any long delay in re-opening the Suez Canal."

Students Riot Following Game

RALEIGH, N.C. (UP)—Police used tear gas early today to break up a wild demonstration by some 300 students at North Carolina State College.

One unidentified policeman was slightly injured when he was struck by a rock. The windshield of a police car was smashed during the near-riot which followed the college's elimination from the Atlantic Coast Conference Basketball Tournament in the first round.

Campus and city police at first tried to quiet the students. In desperation, city police fired tear gas shells to quell the demonstration. Twenty-one demonstrators were arrested.
